Four - teen Nine - ty - two The wind was fair the sails it stirred, You were
"I see land a - hoy!" A - chieve - ment was not far a - head; It off to ho - ri - zons new. When you set sail did the you ex - pect To filled your heart with joy. But you did you know the land you found Was reach the East - ern lands? And for all this you gained re - spect But not the land you sought? That the is - lands which you sailed a - round Were did you un - der - stand? You sailed for days and days and days did not the lands you thought? You sailed for days and days and days

Al - ways in the same di - rec - tion, All you could see was a pale blue haze When you Al - ways in the same di - rec - tion, All that you found were some un - known lands That were looked to the ho - ri - zon, Co - lum - bus, not your des - ti - na - tion! Co - lum - bus, Co - lum - bus,

And
A se- cond voyage and then a third, Allowed you to ex-plore And most of Eu - rope soon had heard Of the o - cean's o - ther shore You may have not a - chieved your aim,

But you did not fail, You o - pened up a land for Spain Where o - thers too could sail. You sailed for days and days and days
