Fireman stoking, pistons pumping
Steam all hissing, Wheels start
turning.

Fireman stoking, pistons pumping
Steam all hissing, Wheels start
turning

Rhythmical pounding
And wheels start to click
On the joins in the rails
As the train gathers pace.

Rhythmical pounding
And wheels start to click
On the joins in the rails
As the train gathers pace, leaving...

Station platform in the distance

Past the signal box
And through the town we go

Past houses, shops
And out into the countryside
And on to where we're going!

And on to where we're going!

Driver in the cab
Makes the engine go
Watching out for signals down the line.

Fireman stokes the fire
Makes the water boil
Steam will push the engine down the line.

Guard is at the back
Passengers, his care,
He makes sure the train will run on time.

Booking clerk will sell
Tickets for a ride
City or the Seaside? He will ask.

Porter's there to help
Platform his domain
Carrying the luggage is his task.

Signalman keeps watch
Safety is his aim
Points and signals set for trains to pass.

Bishop in the First
Comfort is the word,
Space to read, and argue with the best

Second class for clerks
Going home from work
Squashed on benches, chattering with the rest.

Miners in the Third,
Open to the air
Sooty rain bombards them from the west.
